

HOME DESIGN

Something for all the family

Ann Wan

Indigo Living is one of Hong Kong's most exciting destinations for fashionable furnishings and home accessories. With stores in Hong Kong, the mainland and Dubai, the company added Indigo Kids, which in just one year has become a popular haunt for parents looking for inventive children's furniture, accessories and toys.

Indigo has something for every taste in furnishings with styles that include luxe, retro, Chinoiserie and Tattoo Temple – commissioned designs by renowned tattoo artist Joey Pang. The collection has an edgy twist on traditional Chinese koi and dragon motifs seen in Asian art, but the collection is only available for a limited time.

New collections are introduced each season, and this autumn/winter brings the ash wood dining armchair in pink, beige, brown, blue or green from the Eva collection. Designed exclusively for Indigo by

A French table lamp in black, with a resin base and an antique-style lampshade.

Zoo 'owl' storage bin from the Skip Hop collection.

Stefano Tordiglione, the retro-style chair in solid ash is suitable for the living room, bedroom, dining room or study.

Home accessories this season include a serving dish made from welding iron with a gold leaf interior, and sold in a variety of shapes and sizes.

Also available is an antique French black table lamp with a black resin base and an antique French lampshade.

A serving dish made from welding iron with a gold leaf interior.

Noah storage is versatile and helps children look after their belongings.

Popular items at Indigo Kids are the Lelbs collection of mini bean-chairs made from 100 per cent cotton canvas. Other collections include the award-winning Tripp Trapp chairs, for newborns to adults; the Sleepi – an evolving bed that can be adjusted by adding parts as a child grows; and the Skip Hop collection of animal-inspired accessories that includes a colourful zoo storage bin that is a stylish way to store books or stationery. The zoo bookends are perfect for any

The Noah desk and chair-cum-bookcase and storage space is designed with child safety in mind. The edges are rounded while the drawers have stoppers. The paint is free of formaldehyde, lead and VOC and passes European and United States safety regulations. The design is also adaptable to suit room size and storage needs.

Indigo Living is at Horizon Plaza, Central, Repulse Bay, Sha Tin and Cyberport, with Indigo Kids at Horizon Plaza, Cyberport and Tsim Sha Tsui.

Ash dining armchair in pink from the Eva collection.